TEAMSTERS IN STRIKE

Employers Fail in Attempt to Have Troops Ordered Out, Appeal to Court to Restrain Men—Witnesses Heard for Both Sides.

Denying that there was any conspiracy between the local teamsters' union and the international body, directed against the Boston master teamsters, Daniel J. Tobin, business agent of the union, called as the first witness to-day in the hearing on the sweeping injunction asked for by the employers, said that International President Shea had not been asked to take a hand in the strike.

Seventeen witnesses appeared, seven for the employers and ten for the labor leaders named as defendants, when the hearing opened before Supreme Court Justice Loring. It was suggested that the attorneys might agree on some facts by which a lengthy hearing would be shortened.

OBJECTS TO INJUNCTION.
Attorney Fred J. Mansfield for the labor men said: "I object to an injunction of any kind, and I will simply admit that there is a strike. We deny the alleged conspiracy and deny everything practically in the bill except the fact that there is a strike on."

The original bill brought by the employers through attorney James J. Foley was not admitted by Judge Loring in its present form. With these the bill is drawn against John Doe and Richard Roe and is intended to include all other members of labor unions in the city taking part in this strike. Together with those specifically named there, it should set upon their heels the whole lot of them. It is a bill to prevent the strike from spreading.

ORDERS BILL CORRECTED.
"It was intended," said lawyer Foley, "that the last two should cover all members of teamsters' union."

Carrying of Weapons Is Scored by Judge Murray
"I THINK that we have a government in Massachusetts that can give us all the protection we desire without carrying weapons."—Judge M. J. Murray of Municipal Court, in finding William C. Clarke, a strike-breaker, $25 for carrying a concealed weapon and assaulting an unknown person.

POSTAL MESSENGER BOYS GO ON STRIKE

FIFTY REFUSED DEMAND FOR QUARTER-CENT RAISE QUOT WORK.

Messenger boys employed by the Postal Telegraph Company went on a strike to-day for a quarter of a cent more pay per message.

Manager Denies Strike.
Manager Richardson of the central office at No. 100 State street says he knows of no strike, that three boys quit at a branch office but went back to work and that there was no grievance concerning the strike.

Want Quarter-Cent Raise.
The boys say that messengers at this office have long paid 1½ cents per message, and that they demand 2 cents a message, which is the pay for boys at the Tremont street and Court square branches.

ORDER BARS CLIENTS FROM HIS OFFICES
For the first time since the history of the Massachusetts bar a lawyer has secured an injunction to keep away from his clients. Bennett a commission of three days to conduct business and to receive money, but nothing more from going to appellants' offices.

SECTIONAL VIEW OF INTERIOR OF SUBMARINE TYPE IN NEWPORT TEST

SWIFT SUBMARINE DASHES OVER MILE COURSE IN TEST

Merit Competition at Newport Delayed by Accident to Engine of Octopus Yesterday.

(NEWPORT, R. I., May 2.—The submarine test today made a standard dash over the one-mile course in the harbor for the merit competition between the Octopus and the Nautilus. The latter met with an accident yesterday, delaying the competition, which was set for the afternoon. A broken on the port engine was broken while the boat was making a tandem run on the mile course. She will repeat the dash today.

The submarine tender, with Captain John M. Smith, senior member of the Naval trial board, on board, went out of the harbor with the Octopus, and both boats soon began their dash over the mile course. The Octopus, which was the faster of the two, was followed by the Nautilus. The Octopus was suspended for the afternoon.

ANGRY AT GOVERNOR'S ACTION.
Officers of the Employers' Association and the Master Trades' Association are angry today at the refusal of Governor Duffield to call out the militia to guard their boats. Major Paine, secretary of the Employers' Association, refused to discuss the Governor's refusal, but said that his organization would do all in its power to protect the strike-brokers.

"HAVE PLENTY OF MEN."
The strikers about the wholesale dealers have been greatly encouraged. They are now in a position to do all in their power to protect the strike-brokers.

MAYOR REFUSES TO CALL OUT TROOPS

Mayor Fitzgerald, when asked today if he intended to call out the militia in connection with the teamsters' strike, said: "Only in an extraordinary situation would I assume the authority granted me by the statutes to call out the militia. Such a situation, in my opinion, does not exist in Boston at the present time." "In view of the fact that Governor Duffield, head of the police department and commander-in-chief of the military forces of the State, has stated that he has investigated the situation and believes the police able to cope with it, I consider an act of discourtesy on the part of the Mayor of Boston to over-ride the Governor in the matter."

"If I deemed the occasion demanded action on my part I would not hesitate to command the police and the militia, which the law gives me authority to do, to quell disturbances and insure the preservation of peace and the protection of property."

the teamsters' strike rests entirely upon Police Commissioner O'Meara," said Mayor Fitzgerald to a reporter who asked him if he thought the police were handling the strike in a proper manner.

The teamsters on strike desire that the petition of the Master Teamsters and the seeking of an injunction against them from the courts, has placed them in a most unfavorable light, and they denounce such acts as a direct attack upon their organization and its individual members.

Has Faith in Police.
Whether Mayor Fitzgerald will be appealed to today by the Master Teamsters, or not, is yet to be seen. The Mayor, it is understood, has perfect confidence in the police force, and is said to have declared more than once that the teamsters have at all times handled street disorders in a proper manner.

America's Finest Product Is Our Independent Girls

By Beatrice Fairfax

THE position of independent women increases yearly. Time was when no woman who was not forced to it by dire necessity would dream of earning her own living. The only chance open to her were domestic services, becoming a school teacher or a nurse. The result was that many women entered upon work that they were totally unqualified for.

Nowadays, however, every woman who wishes to can find work that is fitted for her.

If a girl is needed at home that should put an effort forth to her taking up any suitable work. But when there are three or four girls in a family it seldom or never happens that they are all needed to help at home, and the ones who are not all can be happier if they become self-supporting.

Girls Should Learn

Every girl, no matter how well to do her father may be, should be taught one branch through which she could support herself if necessary. There is no more foolish sight than the girl who suddenly finds that her father has died, and she has no idea of how to do.

In some countries there is a great deal of false pride about girls earning their own living.

I know a mother and three daughters in a little town in Canada who are so poor that they are not allowed to go to school. The mother will not allow the daughters to do anything to help out the family. It would be beneath the dignity of a girl to work for money. I can imagine a more narrow, bigoted pride than that.

The unmarried girl who stays at home assisted by old maidliness by the time she is thirty.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 2.—It's the Providence Grays' last chance to-day to get one game out of the four with the Sketers. Hugh Duffy's youngsters have not shown up as coming champions, and Bean's men landed the first three games. Cronin is carded to twirl for the Sketers to-day, and McCann for the Jerseys.

In an uninteresting game, Harvard got revenge on Amherst for the defeat of last year by winning yesterday at Soldiers Field, 9 to 0. There was very little batting, the winners only making six hits off McClure, while the visitors only garnered two off Brennan. One of the Crimson team's runs was directly due to a wild pitch by Jube.

CHARLESTOWN

The Chapman A. C. of Charlestown was well represented at the National championship bouts by winning the 115-pound and losing the 105 by a very small margin.

George Dennis, a pupil of Matty Baldwin, lost the 105 by a decision which was questioned.

Henry Melrs, who won the 115, is about as rugged a fighter in the game, having won at the "Giantstown A. C." the Riverside B. C. and the National championship.

Great credit is due to Bill Wallace, who has always looked after Melrs since he broke into the game.

It is understood that several promoters have been looking after Melrs to break into professional ranks, but he is satisfied to stay with Wallace for the time a spell,

And cleared of the crowd and its crew,
Though the tunnel is dim, you may

The new movements which are being introduced in Paris and in America are cruel for horses. Every day a horse is killed by the cruel and traveling fear of these faithful creatures, as they strain every muscle to escape the cruel and cruel enough to waken sympathy in the hearts of the people.

The modern city is made for automatic carriages, for battery horses, for the modern city, hope education, science, philanthropy, and the modern city, the modern world where the creature

If this were done, it would mitigate the very serious evils of Wall street gambling, bad enough without giving stockbrokers a special license to receive stolen money without penalty or refunding.
